YOUTH SOCCER Submission Guidelines

1. There's no better way to encourage your kids than by sharing their stories in the local community newspaper. As a print-only publication serving the permanent residents of the Berkeley community, Berkeley Times is family friendly, safe for kids, and now seeking stories about Youth Soccer. There are lots of games each week, so to get it right, we need the ongoing help of parents and guardians -- perhaps you.
2. Not a confident writer? Have you no experience writing about sports? Don't be discouraged, it's easier than you think. Anyway, we're going to help you. What matters most is that you want to see your son or daughter written about in the newspaper. Moreover, you want to see your children reading about themselves while being active in the community.
3. To submit a Youth Soccer story, just write down the facts of any one contest. Include as many athletes as possible and be careful to spell names correctly. Keep it positive, about growth & learning, because that's what Berkeley Times is all about. Narratives should not be longer than 120 words, please. And thank you.
4. Send submissions by email to news@berkeleyx.org. Be sure to include your name, phone number and email in case we have follow up questions. For more assistance, call the newsroom at (510) 548-2855. If it helps, please refer to the form below.
